What makes the dd600 directional drilling rig of the future?

A design based on customer feedback and state-of-the-art, industry-leading features make the DD600 directional drilling rig of the future.

What makes Ausdrill a good rig?

Ausdrill says "the rig has been designed and built by combining the technical knowledge and experience of both ANW and DRA to produce a machine intended to meet the demanding iron ore drilling conditions while continuously improving the safety of our operators. "Thus far the rig has performed well meeting all expectations of our clients.

Why should you use a hydraulic directional drill for pipeline installation?

No need for diesel exhaust fluid (DEF), lowering costs and reducing downtime for large horizontal directional drill for pipeline installation. Designed to transport without removing the wrenches, you'll save hours in disassembly time. Hydraulic catwalk with fold-down handrails and waist-high cable and hose connections allow for an easier setup.
