Is sonic drilling a new technology?

At the time, sonic drilling was still a relatively new technology, and many in the industry were skeptical of its potential. But Geoprobe® saw the possibilities and invested heavily in developing a sonic head that could deliver powerful, precise drilling across a range of geological conditions.

How does sonic drilling work?

Sonic drilling uses high-frequency, resonant energy to advance a core barrel or casing into subsurface formations. During drilling, the resonant energy is transferred down the drill string to the bit face at various sonic frequencies. Simultaneously rotating the drill string evenly distributes the energy and impact at the bit face.
